Darren Strong from Strong Chiropractic, announces a new, sophisticated computerized decompression table that allows the spine to be gently stretched and relaxed for spinal decompression therapy.

The pattern of alternating pulling and relaxing creates vacuum-like pressure which allows disc material that was herniated or protruded to be pulled back in the disc over time.

Patients will notice a reduction of their pain during these treatment sessions. Stop in today and ask about the new table and how you can benefit.

Fun Times At Cape Breton Post

I worked as an apprentice printer at the Cape Breton Post for 7 years before I opened my own print shop.

It was a great place to work and it had all the characters you would see on any Sit Com.

I guess I can tell these stories now because most of the characters have past on. Thursday night was pay day for the Post back then. The night shift worked to get the paper out by morning. We worked from 10 pm until 6 in the morning.

Once the pays were given out the "boys" would order a quart of white milk and a quart of chocolate milk to be delivered by taxi. Of course that was code for Light Capt. Morgan and Dark Capt. Morgan.

An obviously new driver actually showed up with a quart of chocolate milk and a quart of white milk one night.

One of my early jobs was to set the classified ads for the paper. I saved some of the ones I found amusing.

FOR SALE - Encyclopedia, never used, wife knows everything.

FOR SALE - Turkey partially eaten, two drumsticks still intact, phone.....

WANTED - Waitress, must be 18 years old with 20 years experience, phone...

AUTO REPAIR SERVICE: Free pick-up and delivery. Try us once, you'll never go anywhere again.

FOR SALE: Antique desk suitable for lady with thick legs and large drawers.

At Christmas time all the staff would get a free turkey. They would be delivered a few days before Christmas in boxes. As the lowly apprentice, I was given last chance at selecting a turkey.

During the lunch break I went around and took the tag off the biggest turkey and exchanged it for the smallest turkey. It was only a few ounces in the difference but it was fun watching the senior printers wandering around the boxes and the final turkey left was mine - it was also the biggest! "It's Time To Talk Turkey"

Keeping Church Pipe Organ's alive in Cape Breton

As each year passes we all see a change in everything around us. The biggest one I'm seeing is in Churches. Churches are demising in numbers and are forced to close their doors, which is an awful shame. If you stop for a moment and visualize the inside of these beautiful churches you will probably remember the sound of a pipe organ and a choir singing the old familiar hymns that we grew up to. In today's society going to church isn't a priority with a lot of families. Hockey and many other sports take priority over going to church to hear the word God, but people will tell you that they believe in God. One of the things I love about going to church is that it gives me a feeling of inner peace and to hear an organ playing beautiful music is a real bonus. A lot of these old churches have organs that were purchased many years ago and to replace them today it would be too costly, so we have to keep them preserved as best we can. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here in Sydney Mines has a Casavant organ which has been in the church for many years. If anything major was to happen to that organ, the congregation wouldn't be able to afford to replace it. That is why preserving it by doing regular maintenance each year is so important.

Pipe organs not only need to be played but they need tender loving care no different than your car needs regular maintenance. As I was watching the evening news about a year ago I saw an article about this gentleman Colin Walsh who owns Acadia Pipe Organs and has a workshop in Terance Bay, NS. The news article was so interesting I just knew I had to contact this man to see if I could get him to come to Cape Breton to look at our church organ. A week ago I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Colin Walsh and was very impressed with his knowledge and years of tuning and restoring pipe organs. Colin began his pipe organ building career in 1977, at the age of 14, by serving a full, formal apprenticeship in Dublin, Ireland. He then immigrated to Nova Scotia in 1981 as a journeyman organ-builder. There he continued in his craft, building and restoring pipe organs throughout Atlantic Canada. In 1985, Colin moved to Pennsylvania where he continued his work in organ-building. In 1995, he founded his own business to continue and further the high standards of craftsmanship and artisan work in building and restoring fine musical instruments. In 2016, Colin returned to Halifax, to establish Acadia Pipe Organs Ltd., dedicated to the preservation of pipe organs in Atlantic Canada. Acadia Pipe Organs was started as a full service organ building and restoration business to address the needs of communities and to ensure the continued availability of highly qualified and dedicated artisans to curate and care for the precious and unique instruments of Atlantic Canada. Not only does this company tune, restore and build organs, etc. they also have an apprentice program to train young people the skills, knowledge and appreciation necessary in the art of organ building and tuning. As Mr. Walsh explained to me, these precious instruments need the right person to take care of them and if you don't have that then things can be overlooked and then before you know it, you have a much bigger problem. He told me that he works on all types of organs and gets so much pleasure seeing these instruments come back to life when they are properly maintained and played. He also told me that he has disassembled three pipe organs and reassembled them in different churches here in Nova Scotia.

There are a lot of churches here in Cape Breton with organs of different types and after meeting Mr. Walsh, I highly recommend him to anyone. There is only one other person I've met that has such a passion and that special touch for church organs and that was Jean Francois Mailhot who passed away suddenly two years ago. After meeting Colin Walsh, he is the man any church or business would want to maintain their pipe organ or any type of organ. This man is amazing with his knowledge; experience and tender care of the inner most workings of any organ. Mr. Walsh told me that he has heard about the beautiful organs here in Cape Breton and would love to come, meet the people who play them and to be able to service them. He can be contacted at cmwalsh@acadiapipeorgans.com and also check out their website at www.acadiapipeorgans.com you won't be disappointed. If you have a church pipe organ Colin Walsh of Acadia Pipe Organs is the man you would want to maintain it hands down.

"Pinky's Blues" is studio album number 16 from Canadian born blues artist Sue Foley. By the age of 21 Sue was living in Austin, Texas honing her craft on stage throughout the US, Canada and Europe. On this outing Sue (guitar & vocals) is joined by Jon Penner on bass, Chris "Whipper" Layton on drums and Mike Flanigin on Hammond B3 organ-who also produced the album. To be completely honest I was not familiar with Sue and her music until receiving an advance copy of this album-and the first thing I did was go to YouTube for some background substance from this artist; I was immediately captivated by what I saw and heard; first up was the song "Southern Men", which has a retro-themed music video that presents an incredibly talented singer/guitarist who ranks right up there with many of her contemporary blues legends. Sue has her own YouTube channel with dozens of interesting videos there-check it out. As for this album, it's namesake track is a nod to Sue's pink Telecaster, and this number reminds me of B. B. King's early works. The first single released was Sue's original composition "Dallas Men" and it has a boogie-woogie element added to the jazzy blues vibe as Sue pays homage to the great guitarists who came from the Dallas area over the years. As for some of the other songs, "Two Bit Texas Town" offers up a Stevie Ray Vaughan vibe, as does "Boogie Real Low". For me the best songs here are the last 3; "Okie Dokie Stomp" really highlights Sue's axe work with some supremely tasty blues licks, "Someday" is a real old school number-complete with some of Sue's best vocal work and "When The Cat's Gone The Mice Play" has a Fabulous Thunderbirds feel to it as the number romps and wails. I feel that this CD is definitely one for a blues purist as the original numbers and the cover songs are all top-notch and speak volumes in presenting the pure sound of the blues that Sue and the boys crank out.

Gone To The Dogs

Ronnie, I can't find my wedding ring. Maybe you don't realize it, but we have been married for thirty-five years and this is the first time I'm with out it. Take it easy, dear. We'll start a search b methodical elimination. First of all, did you do wash today ? No. Did you use the garberator ? No. Perhaps when you made the bed it got caught in the bed clothes. Go up to the bedroom and you'll see the bed clothes strewn about. No its not there. Were you watering the garden this morning? No. Did you feed the dog today ? My Gawd. Yes do you suppose ? Get your coat, Grab the dog. We're going to the vet.!
