NEW DECOMPRESSION TABLE RELIEVES PAIN

Darren Strong from Strong Chiropractic, announces a new, sophisticated computerized decompression table that allows the spine to be gently stretched and relaxed for spinal decompression therapy.

The pattern of alternating pulling and relaxing creates vacuum-like pressure which allows disc material that was herniated or protruded to be pulled back in the disc over time.

Patients will notice a reduction of their pain during these treatment sessions. Stop in today and ask about the new table and how you can benefit.

Like a lot of people I am a big fan of George Michael's music, so when I saw that there was a new documentary on him released I was definitely interested. Previously I had watched "George Michael: Easy to Pretend" which was a good Doc-but the difference with the newest one, "George Michael: Freedom Uncut" is that George was actually working on this project at the time of his death in 2016. The other main difference is that there is a lot of exclusive archival footage, and George's narration and interview clips that are intimate and candid, covering his career even before WHAM! and he and Andrew Ridgeley's meteoric rise to super-stardom, and how all that success and fame-the very success and fame a young George craved for so much was not what he expected, or later wanted. There are great insights into his songwriting and musical abilities (he played a lot of instruments) and George's later battle in court against his music label, plus the contract that he and Andrew had signed (basically pressured and coerced into signing) made for some interesting viewing; that court case almost made George give up writing and releasing any more music-until an amicable solution was found. A big part of the documentary also touches on George's true love, Anselmo Feleppa, and the loss George suffered when Anselmo passed away from an AIDS related illness in 1993. To me there are a few issues with this documentary; there are a number of celebrity interviews from some of George's friends and music legends such as Stevie Wonder, Elton John, Ricky Gervais, Nile Rodgers, Mark Ronson, Tracey Emin, Liam Gallagher, Mary J. Blige, Jean Paul Gaultier, James Corden and Tony Bennett. Now I love Gallagher and Gervais's work but these interspersed clips just come across as filler, plus with a running time close to 2 hours this is mostly for true George Michael fans; they will find it worth watching.
