Community Interview With Jack Cool

I had the great pleasure of doing a Zoom interview with Actor / Director /writer Rowan Bousaid. He has been in a lot of movies and tv shows, one of them is Your Worst Nightmare, a documentary which are true stories of people being in situations with people who were once nice at first but later on turned, out to be bad news. In this episode of Your Worst Nightmare which is season 5 episode 6 called Come With Me. Bousaid is cast as Maurice Mason who is the boyfriend of Jennifer Hitchcock who at first is nice to her but later controls her, manipulates her and sadly he takes her own life by murdering her. When I asked Bousaid what was it like playing a role like that he said there is a tremendous amount of trust when working with the actors and actresses. If you would like to listen to my interview with Rowan Bousaid please go to my youtube channel @ <https://www.youtube.com/@jackcool>. If you have trouble getting to it, just email me and I will send it to you. Have a great week, all the best from me always - JACK

NEW DECOMPRESSION TABLE RELIEVES PAIN

Darren Strong from Strong Chiropractic, announces a new, sophisticated computerized decompression table that allows the spine to be gently stretched and relaxed for spinal decompression therapy.

The pattern of alternating pulling and relaxing creates vacuum-like pressure which allows disc material that was herniated or protruded to be pulled back in the disc over time.

Patients will notice a reduction of their pain during these treatment sessions. Stop in today and ask about the new table and how you can benefit.

PAUL POWER

The other day I was scanning through my SiriusXM radio channels and as I passed through them I stopped on channel 60, "Outlaw Country". Normally I'd skip by this channel because of the "C" word (country) as I usually claim to not like country music-but to be honest I don't like 99% of the 'new country', which is basically pop music with cowboy hats, but the old school country and western music, and outlaw country is really good. The song was Dwight Yoakam's cover of the Glen Campbell/Jimmy Webb classic "Wichita Lineman". The original version has a lonely, haunting quality to it whereas Dwight's is more up-tempo-but his voice is what totally sells the song, and the song is on Dwight's "Under the Covers" album; hard to believe that it was released 26 years ago because the album sounds totally current today. It was Dwight's first album of all covers, and featured an amazing duet with Sheryl Crow on Sonny & Cher's "Baby Don't Go", a blues-laced approach to "Good Time Charlie's Got The Blues" by Danny O'Keefe, which was also covered by Willie Nelson, Elvis Presley, Waylon Jennings, Charlie

Dwight Yoakam

Rich, Conway Twitty and many more; it's a country standard for sure. There's also a great version of the 1960 hit song "North to Alaska" by Johnny Horton, a hot rocking take on The Beatles "Things We Said Today" and Dwight even does an amazing bluegrass cover of The Clash's "Train in Vain". A lot of musicians do cover songs; the key to a good one is to do a new and fresh delivery on the track-Dwight did that with every song on this album, none moreso than "Here Comes The Night" by Van Morrison's band Them; Canada's own Streetheart had a hit with the song in 1979. Dwight has sold well over 25 million albums and his pioneering style of "Bakersfield" country music was so good that Johnny Cash claimed Dwight as his favourite country singer. Time magazine even called Dwight a "Renaissance Man". Just by chance a satellite radio station opened the door for me to a phenomenal album.

New Sculpture In Downtown North Sydney

North Sydney's newest landmark - Cod & Kelp. This project was done by the volunteers of the downtown Business Improvement & Development Association (BIDA).

A great deal of North Sydney's history was built on the cod fishery and as a dedication to our fishing legacy, the Downtown BIDA is pleased to unveil Cod & Kelp, an original metal art sculpture, designed and made by Gordon Kennedy of North River.

Thanks to Gordon for his wonderful work, to the North Sydney Historical Society for providing the sculpture's home, and to Steele's Monuments for the granite base and placement.

CAPE BRETON COMEDY FESTIVAL

Cape Breton summers are about to get a lot funnier with a brand new festival - the Cape Breton Comedy Festival is thrilled to announce their first annual festival coming up this summer from August 23 to 26 at venues all over Cape Breton. The festival is being produced by veteran comedian Nick Beaton and award-winning event producer Ash Young, both from Cape Breton.

The first annual Cape Breton Comedy Fest kicks off August 23rd to the 26th, with shows all over the Island from St Peters to Dominion to Ingonish. It will feature some of the most talented comedians from around the Maritimes. Comedians who have appeared at the Just For Laughs Festival, Winnipeg Comedy Festival, and the Halifax Comedy Festival. They have appeared on shows such as CBC's TheDebaters, Roast Battle Canada, Match Game, and written for This Hour has 22 Minutes.

"It is so amazing that we managed to put together this line-up for the first year," said Nick Beaton, "the calibre of comedians coming to perform in Cape Breton this August is world class."

Comedians joining this year's festival include Peter Anthony, Nick Beaton, Hunter Collins, Clifton Cremo, Dan Hendricksen, Kyle Hickey, Shawn Hogan, Travis Lindsay, Luba Magnus, Peter White and more local acts. The shows will be held throughout the island to give chance to residents and visitors to join in the laughter.

The list of events are:

– Aug. 23 – Festival kick off – Bras d'Or Lakes Inn, St. Peter's – 8:00 PM

– August 24 – Vicar's View Venue, Big Baddeck – 7:00 PM

– August 24 – Sandbar, Dominion – 9:00 PM

– August 25 – Cape Smokey, Ingonish – 7:00 PM

– August 25 – Daniel's Bar, Sydney – Contest show featuring local comedians vying for a spot on the final gala – 9:00 PM

– August 26 – C200 (main concourse) – Featuring all headlining comedians from the festival – 8:00 PM

– August 26 – Festival After Party – TBA

To purchase tickets and get more information on each event line up please go to www.capebretoncomedyfest.com

Hometown Hero Preparing For Inaugural Games

BY COREY LEBLANC

There will be a familiar face to local fans when the Scottish heavy events take center stage at the inaugural Sydney Mines Highland Games later this month.

Bryan MacLean – a multi-time national and international master's champion – will compete in front of a partisan hometown crowd for the tie time.

"Never," he said in recent interview, when asked if he thought he would ever have such an opportunity.

MacLean added, "I am super excited – I cannot wait to compete in front of my family and friends."

He noted that, although his parents – Paul and Ann (who now live in Frenchvale) – have seen him in-person, the Sydney Mines Highland Games will provide most of his family and friends with their first opportunity to see him compete, other than watching online.

After spending the early childhood years in neighboring Florence, his family moved to Sydney Mines – more specifically, MacDonald Crescent – where he grew up and graduated from Memorial Composite High School.

"It is such a beautiful place," MacLean said of the former coal mining town, while noting landmarks near and dear to his heart – such as Lockman's Beach.

That's usually one of his stops – especially during the summer – when he visits from Moncton, New Brunswick. And, of course, ordering a hero sub from one of the pizzerias is always a top priority.

"I can't wait to show it off," he added, of having the opportunity to share Sydney Mines with the other Scottish heavy event athletes.

MacLean hopes they – and the other fans and spectators – will be able "to stay a little bit longer" and enjoy everything that Sydney Mines and the Northside area has to offer.

As for how he became a Scottish heavy events athlete – an uncommon sport of choice in this area – he explained that his interest sparked an early age; his attention captured when his family travelled to Highland Games to watch his sister, April, in the traditional dance competitions.

"It really appealed to me," the now 45-year-old said of the unique combination of strength and technique required to succeed at a high level.

Thirteen years ago, while working in western Canada, MacLean decided to take part in a Scottish heavy events workshop.

"I fell in love and I have been doing it ever since," he said. In just more than a decade, MacLean has steadily climbed the ladder in his sport; an athletic career – to this point – highlighted by medal winning performances at the national and international levels in the master's (40+) classifications.

"I have had some unbelievable experiences," he said. In 2018, he captured silver and bronze – in the heavy and light hammers, respectively – at the Scottish Masters World Championships in Stuttgart, Germany. Four years later, in 2022, he fashioned his golden moment, topping the podium in the caber toss.

Along with Stuttgart, MacLean has represented Canada on the international stage in Moncton, Gyro, Hungary; Fort Worth, Texas; and Tucson, Arizona (twice).

In 2022, at the 157th Antigonish Highland Games, he finished third in the Canadian Scottish Athletics Federation lightweight championships.

Noting that most of his counterparts measure more than six-foot tall and tip the scales at beyond 300 pounds, MacLean described himself – with a laugh – as "one of the small guys" at 5'9" and 200 pounds.

Those size differences make being the best he can be – in terms of strength, agility and especially technique – crucial.

Although his top performances usually come in the hammer throws – both for weight and distance – MacLean noted that he has a "special place in my heart" for the fan favorite caber toss.

"I just love it. There is nothing like it; it is such a unique event," he said.

Because there is a variety of events, MacLean explained that excelling at one does not bode well for overall success.

"You cannot focus on just one," he noted.

When it comes to preparation, MacLean spends plenty of time in the gym during the off-season and winter months. While, in-season, the focus turns to two to three times per week working on technique.

MacLean, who has participated in approximately more than 100 Scottish heavy events, competes in eight to 10 per season. And, of course, the pinnacle of those would be his national and international appearances.

Wherever he competes, whether around the corner or the world, one item is always nearby – a Cape Breton flag.

"It is always in the background," MacLean said, noting he wants everyone to know how proud he is to represent Cape Breton and Sydney Mines.

He added, not matter where he travels to compete, "I never forget where I came from."

MacLean, who said he has been battling an injury for the past month or so, spoke to the Games only a couple of days before he was to compete in the New Brunswick provincial championships in Fredericton.
