NEW DECOMPRESSION TABLE RELIEVES PAIN

Darren Strong from Strong Chiropractic, announces a new, sophisticated computerized decompression table that allows the spine to be gently stretched and relaxed for spinal decompression therapy.

The pattern of alternating pulling and relaxing creates vacuum-like pressure which allows disc material that was herniated or protruded to be pulled back in the disc over time.

Patients will notice a reduction of their pain during these treatment sessions. Stop in today and ask about the new table and how you can benefit.

MEMORIAL HIGH COMPETES IN COAL BOWL CLASSIC

The New Waterford community has taken it a step further by hosting the 40th Coal Bowl Classic Basketball Tournament from February 5th - 10th. This unique tournament has teams from all across Canada competing.

The teams competing attend school sessions and the local community billets the teams. This takes a lot of commitment and planning and the New Waterford community should be congratulated.

North Sydney is represented by Memorial High and the Breton Bears are last year's tournament winners. There are teams from PEI, New Brunswick, Hants NS, Alberta and Quebec. In my younger days, I officiated in many Coal Bowl tournaments and I can tell you that the competition is fierce. Tickets go on sale soon so make sure you get yours early as they sell out quickly.

NOVA SCOTIA HERITAGE DAY 2024

I know it's early yet but I'm already looking towards the first Winter holiday on Monday, February 19th. The third Monday in February is a holiday in Nova Scotia to celebrate the heritage of the province

When is Heritage Day in Nova Scotia?

Heritage Day in Nova Scotia is a provincial holiday celebrated on the third Monday in February in Nova Scotia.

Heritage Day replaces the Family Day Holiday observed on the third Monday of February in other areas of Canada.

History of Heritage Day in Nova Scotia

Introduced in 2015, each year this holiday will honour a different person or event, chosen by Nova Scotian school children.

The first subject was Viola Desmond.

2023 - Rita Joe, a Mi'kmaw poet from Eskasoni and We'koqma'q First Nations in Unama'ki (Cape Breton Island) is the Heritage Day 2023 Honouree.

PAUL POWER

On May 25th of 1977 George Lucas unleashed an entertainment juggernaut (and that's putting it mildly) that opened the door to many galaxies, with characters that were inspirational, lovable, loathed and a few that are best forgotten (Hello Jar Jar Binks!). To capitalize on that phenomenal groundswell of popularity for all things Star Wars a year and a half later the "Star Wars Holiday Special" was released-and it was something that was weirder than any creature from the original movie. The special followed Chewbacca and Han Solo as they made their way to Chewie's home planet to celebrate Life Day (a Wookiee holiday) and featured all of the characters from "Star Wars", and introduced a new one-Boba Fett. It was a variety special that had singing, dancing and skits but was so bad that it was never re-broadcast, or officially released on home video. It did soon reach cult status as a highly sought after bootleg VHS that became rarer than anything Indiana Jones ever searched for. Ironically, the animated segment that introduced Boba Fett was well-received and in 2021 was released on Disney+. This documentary, "A Disturbance In The Force", details the whole fiasco of that program; imagine a 1970's style singing and dancing variety show that featured the movie cast alongside Bea Arthur, Art Carney, Harvey Korman, and even Jefferson Starship (Jefferson Airplane at the time). Many involved distanced themselves from the show afterwards, and George Lucas was not involved-and was not a fan. The special was so cheesy that the sponsor should have been a cracker company. The documentary is the opposite-and features Seth Green, Kevin Smith, Weird Al Yankovic, Donny Osmond, Patton Oswald and many more. This is a 'must watch' for real "Star Wars" fans.

TAKE A SHINE TO

Cape Breton has a grand tradition of brewing drink and I'm not speaking about tea here. The Scots and Irish ancestors brought over their talents and skills of brewing and it has been carried on in every nook and cranny since that time.

Things were fine until the government decided to legislate the brewing of liquor and beer and it went underground. The government agents have spent time, money and effort in trying to uncover hidden stills. The locals have invented many plans and schemes to avoid being caught.

Some of the stories make amusing tales. In the early days of our island history, the stills were hidden in caves and distant places. Lookouts were posted and many traps were set to prevent discovery. As time went on, the stills were located close by hidden in plain site. One such example was a cow barn that had the still and copper pipes running together with the milking machines and to the casual observer, they looked like any dairy operation. Another ingenious still was uncovered in a restaurant that catered to the working man and the still was set up in plain site but looked just like a part of the kitchen equipment so any steam or heat was easily explained.

Once the "moonshine" was distilled, it had to be delivered. The drivers of the day were as experienced as any NASCAR driver would be today. I remember several of my kinfolk telling stories of being chased by government officials and the driver would turn up a particular road and there were traps set up like spiked rods and mud holes. The driver would know exactly where they were but the unsuspecting government drivers would run into these obstacles and blow out the tires on the cars or get stuck in a ditch.

The entire neighbourhood were generally aware of the locals and what they were up to. If any stranger or suspicious character showed up or hung around, they knew instantly and the village grapevine would report it. This story involves an actual case in the Inverness area. A stranger showed up in town and the "shiners" were tipped off.

They allowed the government agent to follow them to a farmhouse and in plain sight started loading gallon jugs in the back of the car. When they left the farmhouse, the government car followed close behind. To make it look authentic, the "shiners" began to speed and soon the chase was on. They roared through town and finally the car was stopped at a roadblock and the driver arrested. The "shine" was confiscated and the date set for the trial.

When the trial came, the defendant didn't even have a lawyer. The government official outlined his case, claiming he observed the transfer of the illegal booze and had it locked in the vault ever since. He took several jars to court to show as evidence. When he was finished testifying, it looked bad for the driver, Archie Neil Beaton.

Archie got up and said to the judge, "Your honor, I was coming home from my cousin's place when this big black car came right up behind me. I speeded up and he kept coming. I got frightened and took off. That's when I came to the roadblock." He then went over to the government desk, asked the clerk for a glass and poured a little of the liquid into the cup. He turned back to the judge and said, "Your honor, I am confident that you can tell good shine when you taste it." He handed the judge the glass and the judge took a little sip to wet his lips. He then downed the half glass as the court spectators gasped.

The judge turned to the government bench and said, "Gentlemen, this is nothing but pure water. You better come up with better evidence than this or your case will be gone like shit through a goose!"

The startled government "boys" opened the remaining jars only to discover there was water in all of them. Archie Neil knew he was being watched so he had filled the jugs with well water and the real shine was delivered after the government car started following Archie. They had been babysitting 20 gallons of well water for a month. The case was thrown out and the judge warned the government to have a better case the next time they came before him or he would rule in favor of the defendant. Archie Neil threw an impromptu party for all his friends.

TAX TIPS & VALUABLE DEDUCTIONS

ELIGIBLE CHARITABLE TAX DEDUCTIONS

Do all charities qualify for the charitable donations tax credit? - If an organization asks for a donation, you might want to check with the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) to ensure they are a registered charity. The CRA has an ongoing list of charities and associations that qualify. If you donate to an organization that's not recognized by the CRA, you won't be able to claim the donation. A registered charity will provide an official donation receipt, which includes their official registration number. The charitable donations tax credit can be claimed beyond just traditional charities. You can actually get a tax refund for donating to other types of organizations, such as:

- Canadian amateur athletic associations
- Registered journalism organizations
- Some registered foreign charities (as long as the Government of Canada has previously made a gift to that charity)
- Low-cost housing corporations for the aged
- Municipal or public bodies performing a function of government in Canada
- Municipalities
- Universities outside Canada (but only if approved by the government)

What if a charity is no longer registered? - As long as the charity was registered at the time you made your donation and you have your receipt, you'll still receive your tax credit. The CRA's website shows if a charity was registered and when, so simply looking on their website will confirm for you if you can claim your tax credit.

Can all Canadians receive the charitable donations tax credit? - Yes, all Canadians can claim the charitable donations tax credit, as long as they have an official donation receipt. It's important to note that charities don't have to issue tax receipts for donations under $20.

Do charities send the CRA my tax receipt? - The CRA won't have a list of the charitable contributions you've made throughout the year. It's on you to save those receipts so you can file them and get the charitable donation tax credit.

Make sure to keep a record of which ones you've claimed and which ones you haven't claimed so you don't double file.

How much can I write off on taxes for charitable donations? If you're looking for tax deductible donations, the sky is the limit when it comes to charity tax deductions. You can claim eligible amounts of gifts to a limit of 75% of your net income on your tax return. So, if your net income was $55,000 this year, you could claim up to $41,250.

YOUR WEEKLY HOROSCOPE

Aries (March 21-April 19) - this is another productive day! Talk to parents, bosses and VIPs about your money ideas or any idea that you have that might boost your earnings down the road. People will be impressed by your words of wisdom. Your wealth and belongings might be impacted suddenly.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) - This is a winning day for you! Pay attention. Travel plans look great. Legal matters will be in your favour. Good day for discussions about publishing or important papers at school. Because you're excited about new ideas, you might be impetuous today. Be careful.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) - Something going on behind the scenes might surprise you today. Nevertheless, you have a good handle on how to deal with details about shared property and inheritances. Discussions with partners and friends will be smooth. Despite being caught off guard - you will recover nicely.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) - Listen to the advice of friends and members of groups today because it will be in your best interests. In fact, a friend might do something surprising. Or perhaps you will encounter someone who is unusual. Don't let a coworker bring you down. Be circumspect.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) - Tread carefully because a boss, parent or someone in a position of authority (yes, the police) might surprise you today. "Busted!" Meanwhile, work-related discussions, especially in groups and meetings will benefit you. They might entail work-related. Whatever you learn will make you look good.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) - Travel plans might suddenly change today. They might be cancelled or perhaps you will suddenly have to travel when you didn't expect to do so. Information about your kids, the entertainment world or your social plans (including vacations) are up for grabs.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) - This is a great day for family discussions as well as home repairs. You might entertain at home today. You might discuss renovations or building plans. Something about financial or practical support that might help a family member might surprise you. Check banking and shared property for something unexpected.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) - This is a busy day full of short trips and lively discussions! Be prepared for a curveball from a close friend or partner. Allow extra time for the unexpected. Or perhaps, you will be introduced to someone who is different or unusual? Today you might learn something fascinating or amazing.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) - You might have some bright ideas that will financially benefit you today. They could be related to your work, your health or a private project you're doing. Something unexpected or surprising might open up new avenues that will be lucrative in the future.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) - This is a great day! You feel optimistic and confident, which is why you will be open to all kinds of fun suggestions about sports, kid's activities, the arts and fun getaways. You might also see how to invest in these same areas? Meanwhile, parents should be vigilant because this is a mildly accident-prone day for your kids.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) - Your home routine will change today. Small appliances might break down or a minor breakage could occur. Nevertheless, behind-the-scenes conversations will benefit you! Someone might have great ideas about improving where you live. Pay attention to what others say.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) - Enjoy schmoozing with friends as well as groups and organizations today because your interaction with these people will expand your world. They might have good advice for you. They might encourage you. Meanwhile, be personally vigilant because this is an accident-prone day for you.
