NEW DECOMPRESSION TABLE RELIEVES PAIN

Darren Strong from Strong Chiropractic, announces a new, sophisticated computerized decompression table that allows the spine to be gently stretched and relaxed for spinal decompression therapy.

The pattern of alternating pulling and relaxing creates vacuum-like pressure which allows disc material that was herniated or protruded to be pulled back in the disc over time.

Patients will notice a reduction of their pain during these treatment sessions. Stop in today and ask about the new table and how you can benefit.

Steven Wilson: "Home Invasion" - It's always nice when an artist who's 'new to me' is brought to my attention- and apparently this artist has been making waves across the pond since around 1983 with various bands, and then as a solo artist. Steven's bio says that he was first influenced by his dad's copy of Pink Floyd's "The Dark Side of The Moon" and his mom's copy of Donna Summer's "Love To Love You Baby". Steven wrote his first song at 10, and recorded and produced it-so, wow on that! Over the years Steven has been the driving force in a number of bands; Altamont, Porcupine Tree, No-Man, I.E.M., Bass Communication, Black Field, Storm Corrosion, plus his solo albums-5 of them so far. He was crowned the "King of Prog Rock" by the Progressive Music Awards in London-and has been described by the Daily Telegraph as "the most successful British artist you've never heard of."-until now. The Royal Albert Hall is an historical venue that provides a beautiful backdrop for this concert (full title is "Steven Wilson-Home Invasion: Live at the Royal Albert Hall") and the DVD starts with a video clip that's basically a behind-the-scenes prep by the band for the show-which starts with the song "Nowhere

Now"; at that moment the viewer realizes that they are in for some musical magic spread out over the next 2 plus hours. Everything in the music biz nowadays is "genres", but it's pretty much impossible to peg Steven Wilson as a single 'this or that'; elements of progressive rock are successfully blended with pop, funk, blues and a whole lot of cool stuff.

There are times when the concert seems almost intimate, as with the song "People Who Eat Darkness" but the reality is that the number tells the ominous story of someone living next door to a terrorist-with no one the wiser until it's too late. The video projection screens used hit the horrific transformation home as the quiet man becomes, literally, a monster. To counter-balance a bit the dancers from Steven's music video for the song "Permenanting" come onstage and whirl and twirl with great pop abandon. Steven also has a great back-up band at play here-which is more evident to the viewer as the camera shots don't jump every 3 seconds just to fake excitement. Extras include an interview with Steven-which for people like me adds to the discovery of someone new and exciting, and enjoying their music for the first time. There's also a few rehearsal songs included-almost like a musical appetizer for the main course, shall we say. All in all this is a brilliant release-and I am now a fan of Steven Wilson's music.

TAX TIPS COLUMN

NON-TAXABLE INCOME

Amounts which are not required to be included in income for tax purposes, so are not reported on a personal tax return, include:

- GST/HST credits
- Canada Child Benefit (CCB) payments and related provincial and territorial child benefits and credits
- disability insurance proceeds, depending on how the premiums were paid.
- most gifts and inheritances
- lottery winnings, and raffle prizes, unless the circumstances deem that the proceeds are considered income from employment, business or property, or a prize for achievement. For instance, prizes from employer-promoted contests could be considered employment income. See Folio S3-F9-C1 below. The cost basis of property which has been won as a prize in connection with a lottery scheme is deemed by s. 52(4) of the Income Tax Act (ITA) to be the fair market value at the time it is won. This means that there is no capital gain if the prize is subsequently sold, unless it is sold for more than the amount deemed to be the cost basis. If a person decided to sell the right to the prize, (e.g., sell a winning $1 million lottery ticket for $900,000), s. 40(2)(f) of the ITA deems any gain or loss from this transaction to be nil.

- subject to certain exceptions (see Folio S3-F9-C1 below), an amount received as a windfall. Factors which indicate that an amount received is a windfall, which are based on The Queen v. Cranswick, [1982] CTC 69, 82 DTC 6073 (FCA):

- the taxpayer had no enforceable claim to the payment,
- the taxpayer made no organized effort to receive the payment,
- the taxpayer neither sought after nor solicited the payment,
- the taxpayer had no customary or specific expectation to receive the payment,
- the taxpayer had no reason to expect the payment would recur,
- the payment was from a source that is not a customary source of income for the taxpayer,
- the payment was not in consideration for or in recognition of property, services or anything else provided or to be provided by the taxpayer, and
- the payment was not earned by the taxpayer as a result of any activity or pursuit of gain carried on by the taxpayer and was not earned in any other manner.
